

Mr. Forrest continued his argument against the probability of Mrs. Conklin's ability to identify the horse after the very brief inspection she had of it while looking out of the window. She said the horse was very white, while Moreland had said the animal was gray. It is so dark that the electric lights were burning, and yet she could distinguish shades of white, seen at a distance. A similar blunder was made by Mrs. Conklin in testifying about the coat worn by the driver of the white horse. Mrs. Conklin said he wore a dirty, rusty-looking coat that seemed too long and too large for him, while Frank Scanlan, who was the man on the sidewalk, said the man's coat was short and seemed too small for him.

Mr. Forrest read long extracts from Mrs. Conklin's testimony, and reasoned from them that the truth was that the circumstances were not worthy of belief. She said she could not identify the horse when Schack took it to her, but when Beck took it to her, she said she recognized it at once by the motion which she had never mentioned to any one before. This shows that she was not telling the truth. She was counterfeiting the truth. When persons counterfeited the truth they think they must do something extraordinary. And this counterfeiting the truth she had detected as easily as the expert can detect the counterfeit dollar.

Mrs. Conklin had been impeached, Mr. Forrest said, by Capt. Schack, by Frank Scanlan, and by Reporter Glenn, in her description of the horse and the man. Therefore she could not be believed. The Smith incident was not discussed. Coughlin, when questioned by the chief of police, had told him the truth about Smith. "Is it probable," asked Mr. Forrest, "that Dan Coughlin, a detective, would go to a livery stable and publicly encourage a horse which he knew was used to murder Dr. Cronin to his death? It is improbable. There was no necessity for going to a public livery stable to hire a horse to be used in a conspiracy to murder."

Mr. Forrest then considered the question of motive. The alleged remark of Coughlin that it was rumored Dr. Cronin was a British spy can be considered as a threat against Finerty. But it had reference only to Finerty's official "head," or office. "The evidence of Sampson, Garrity, and Linde, and the word of Finerty," Mr. Forrest denounced the Sampson-Garrity crowd, and said that it was apparent that their motive was revenge on Coughlin.

Now come to Martin Burke," said Mr. Forrest. "There was a little circumstance which occurred in this case that affords an excellent illustration. A man named Martensen, a liveryman, and he is innocent according to the theory of the prosecution. He materially helped to carry out this crime, if there was a crime committed, and yet he is innocent."

For the sake of argument Mr. Forrest then transformed Martensen, the expressman, who is a Swede, into Michael Simonsen, a member of the Cronin case. He asked the jury to assume that Martensen was one of those Irishmen who believed that Cronin was a British spy. Now, if Martensen, alias Shansnessy, had been arrested as an accessory to the crime against him, Mr. Forrest said, would he be just as strong as the evidence against Burke or Coughlin. Even though the jury found the fact that the furniture he hauled from No. 117 Clark street was the furniture bought by Simonsen to carry out the conspiracy, it would be as hard for him to prove his innocence as any man on trial. Why? Simply because he was an enemy of Dr. Cronin and hauled the furniture to the Cronin cottage.

Mr. Forrest then said that Burke's flight to Winnipeg or the fact that he fought the extradition proceedings did not prove guilt. It is no evidence of guilt, he said, because a man takes advantage of the law. "Now, gentlemen," said Mr. Forrest in conclusion, "I will ask you to find Martin Burke and Dan Coughlin not guilty. Why? Because it has not been established in this case that a conspiracy existed between these men and the jury. In behalf of Martin Burke and Dan Coughlin I have no peroration to make. A small word will serve as my peroration, and the word I give you is duty—duty to Illinois, duty to our God, duty to ourselves. To 'thine own self be true and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man.'"

The court took an adjournment until Friday morning at 10 o'clock, when Mr. Mills will begin his closing address for the State.

COONEY THE FOX IN CUSTODY.

It is Doubt That the Much Wanted Man Is in Jail at Dodgeville, Wis.

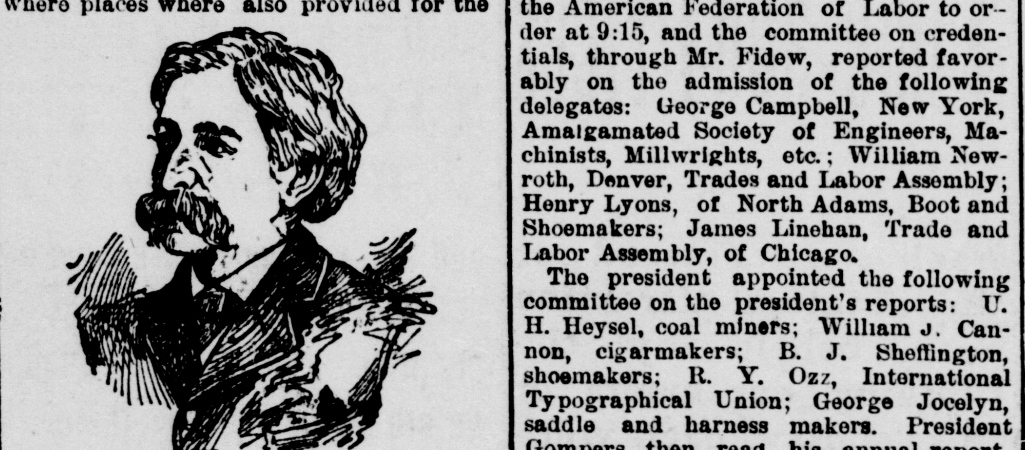

DODGEVILLE, Wis., Dec. 12.—Developments today seem to leave no doubt that "Cooney the Fox," one of the men wanted for the Cronin murder, is in jail in this city. The man was captured here by the sheriff about a month ago on suspicion of burglary, and resisted arrest, displaying a revolver. He refused to give any account of himself, saying they could call him John Jones, and he was sentenced to four months for carrying concealed weapons.

He is a middle aged man, apparently intelligent, and a remarkable reader of human nature. His habit of concealing himself in his cell when any one entered the jail aroused suspicion, and his determination to conceal his identity caused the sheriff to send to Chicago for the photograph of Cooney. The photograph came to-day and was shown to him, and his determination to conceal his identity caused the sheriff to send to Chicago for the photograph of Cooney. The prisoner says if he has to go to Chicago he wants the sheriff here to take him. He is smugly-shaven, now, and the center

CENTENNIAL CEREMONIES. COMMEMORATION OF WASHINGTON'S INAUGURAL.

The Occasion Fifty Celebrated by Our National Legislators—Chief Justice Fuller's Address.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The ceremonies of Congress in commemoration of the centennial of the inauguration of George Washington were held Wednesday in the hall of the House of Representatives. The hall had been especially arranged for the occasion, its usual seating capacity being tripled by the introduction of additional chairs. The galleries were filled with the families of Congressmen, and Cabinet officers, and government officials, and presented a brilliant spectacle. Seats had been provided in front of the Speaker's desk for the President and Cabinet, Vice-President, Speaker of the House, Justices of the Supreme Court, the Hon. George Bancroft, celebrated historian, and others of official prominence. Members of the Senate and House occupied seats in the chamber, where places were also provided for the diplomatic representatives, officers of the army and navy, and members of the Pan-American and maritime congresses. The address of the occasion was delivered by Chief Justice Fuller, and occupied nearly two hours in delivery. The distinguished speaker began by reference to the great celebration in New York city in April last. He then touched upon the chief historic events immediately preceding and following the inauguration of Washington, discussing them with reference to their bearing upon the welfare of the nation which was thus being developed.

The availability of Washington at the crisis at which he exchanged the sword for the duties of the chief magistrate was one of those providential blessings so often bestowed on this nation. The promotion of human happiness was the keynote of the century in which Washington lived. In discussing his administration Mr. Fuller spoke especially of the wisdom displayed in his choice of a cabinet and his selection of members of the Supreme court. After discussing at length the character and official work of Washington Justice Fuller traced briefly the history of the nation through the century, especially dealing with the period of civil war from which it emerged still one nation.

The speaker closed with reference to the great responsibilities of the nation and important issues presented for its decision. The new century, he said, may be entered upon in a spirit of optimism held in fearlessness of the faith whose very consciousness of limitations of the present asserts the attainability of a more perfect world of a still grander future.

President Harrison returned to Washington at 8 o'clock in the morning from his trip to Chicago. The cabinet assembled as usual at 12 o'clock, and then, with the President, proceeded in a body to participate in the centenary exercises in the House of representatives.

Rev. W. H. Milburn, the House chaplain, delivered a benediction, and while the Marine band played national airs the assembly dispersed.

The State, War, Navy and Treasury departments were closed at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon in honor of the centennial celebration.

THE SUPREME COURT.

A Proposition to Increase Its Membership.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A proposition is under consideration to provide for increasing the membership of the United States Supreme court from nine to eleven. The subject is being talked over by members of the Senate judiciary committee, and the outcome may be a bill to reorganize the Supreme court and make the additions named. The enlargement of the court is held to be necessary because of the rapid increase in the business from the State courts; besides the new States will add largely to the number of new cases on the Supreme court docket.

JOHNSTOWN'S DISASTER.

Verdict by a Coroner's Jury Censuring the Theater Management.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 12.—The coroner's jury has finished its investigation into the theater disaster. The management of the theater is censured for not having a proper number of exits for people to escape from the building in case of an emergency. The building of the dead is given as eleven. None of the victims lived at Johnstown before the flood.

Condition of a Broken Kansas Bank.

ABILENE, Kan., Dec. 12.—Careful estimates regarding the failure of the First National Bank of Abilene, Kan., show that the bank has assets, mostly western land mortgages, at $210,000. The Kansas Farmers' Insurance company, of which President J. E. Bonbrake of the bank is also president, will be somewhat affected by the failure, but no danger of suspension is considered.

—Alderman J. B. McLean left for Rockford this morning to take in the Poultry and Bench show.

—Mr. D. J. Conannon, proprietor of the Star restaurant, left for Chicago to buy Christmas candies to-day.

—Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Clark, of the fourth ward, rejoice over the arrival of a handsome girl baby at their home this morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Bailey came up from Beloit to attend the party at Senator Lovejoy's last evening, and returned this morning.

—Janesville Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar assemble in regular semi-monthly convocation this evening at Masonic hall.

—People looking for Xmas presents, will find many things of interest to them at the Young People's sale at Columbia Hall, December 18th, 1889.

—Mr. and Mrs. Will Orndall, of the town of harmony, are feeling proud over the arrival of a twelve pound son that was born to them a few days ago.

—Mrs. J. H. Wemple and family left this morning for Norfolk, Virginia, for the winter. They expect to visit Washington and other cities on the way.

—Mr. Bert Luddington has opened a shooting gallery opposite the Gazette office. He offers a cutter and some other choice prizes for the best score January first.

—The handsome residence of Senator Lovejoy, as it was illuminated last evening, attracted universal attention and showed to good advantage from many parts of the city.

—The Young People's Working society of the First M. E. church have made arrangements to have their Christmas sale and supper at Columbia hall, Wednesday evening Dec. 18, 1889.

—None should miss the opportunity of hearing the celebrated Balmoral Choir on Saturday evening at the Congregational church. The admission for children under twelve years of age will be twenty-five cents.

—The Card Club will meet with Miss Marie Babcock next Monday evening, December 16th. This change has been made on account of Prof. Layton's musicale on Tuesday evening.

—The Aurora Daily News contains a complimentary notice of the new laundry of Messrs. Fisher & Moore, formerly of Janesville. They have a choice location and are doing a good business. Their many Janesville friends will rejoice in their prosperity.

—The attendance was very large at the Central House ball last evening. Prof. Tucker's orchestra furnished the inspiration for dancing and the dancers kept time to it until early this morning. At one o'clock supper was served and everybody reports a very pleasant time.

—Mr. W. E. Clinton, of the Gazette Bindery, has purchased a lot at Riverview Park, and is about letting the contract to build him a house. Work will be commenced at once, and if the weather permits, the house will be enclosed by the first of February. The lot selected by Mr. Clinton fronts on the park, and is a very desirable location. Riverview Park addition promises to be one of the best in the city. The Carringtons are doing all they can to make the location attractive to home seekers, and with every prospect of flattering success.

—Through the quiet planning of her granddaughter, Mrs. Electa M. Gile had occasion to pleasantly celebrate her sixtieth birthday anniversary at the home of her daughter, Mrs. N. Fredericks. Center avenue, last evening. Miss Jessie Fredericks had invited a number of her grandmother's intimate friends to assemble at her home in the evening. They came. The old lady was truly surprised, yet the hours of the beautiful December evening were most happily spent. The old lady was kindly remembered, many tokens being brought to remind her of the happy occasion.

—Mr. Geo. Clark of Harmony, writes the Gazette under date of Orange, Cal., Dec. 5th: "We arrived at our destination late and sound. We had a splendid time on the way and enjoyed it very much. Stopped off at Ogden and went down to Salt Lake City and went through the Mormon Tabernacles and they are elegant buildings. My health has been a good deal better out here than it was in Wisconsin. This is the greatest place for oranges and lemons I ever saw. My wife and I do nothing but eat fruit. We will be sure to look healthy in the spring."

—The celebrated "Banana" hams and breakfast bacon, only at Fred Vankirk's.

—At 1:45 o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was turned in from box 46, located at the corner of South Franklin and Union streets, giving the department nearly a mile run. Arriving at the box no cause for the alarm could be found and no one appeared in sight that seemed to know anything about it. Several parties were at the box in too short a time after the alarm was turned in—hardly having time to carefully dress as they were—and perhaps it will be an easy matter to apprehend the guilty party. He should be made to feel the full penalty of the law, besides being hung up by the thumbs to a lamp post for a time. There is nothing very funny in turning in a false alarm of fire, especially in the middle of the night.

—Fancy "Albany duck" flour and a pure maple syrup, at Fred Vankirk's.

—A big Indian bound for Madison was at the depot this morning, and when he saw his train pull out for the purpose of letting the trains from the north come

KIMBALL-THOROUGHGOOD.

Married—At half past eight o'clock last evening, by the Rev. James Slidell, rector of Trinity church, Mr. William F. Kimball and Miss Allie Thoroughgood, both of this city.

The ceremony was a very quiet but none the less happy affair, and took place at the neat new home of the newly married pair on Sinclair street, only the immediate families of the parties being present. Following the ceremony a wedding feast was served, and the evening was most happily spent in social intercourse.

The groom, Mr. Wm. F. Kimball, is a son of the late John W. Kimball, and is the popular foreman of the company of the Janesville Machine Foundry. He is a first class young man. The bride is a daughter of Alderman and Mrs. John Thoroughgood, born and reared in Janesville, a great favorite among her associates, and possesses those womanly characteristics which will make her home a happy place in which to abide.

The bride was kindly remembered by her friends, receiving many tokens as reminders of her happy wedding day, among which was a splendid upright piano from her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball commence housekeeping at once in their new home on Sinclair street, where the best wishes of many friends will abide with them.

KIMBALL-THOROUGHGOOD.

Married—At half past eight o'clock last evening, by the Rev. James Slidell, rector of Trinity church, Mr. William F. Kimball and Miss Allie Thoroughgood, both of this city.

The ceremony was a very quiet but none the less happy affair, and took place at the neat new home of the newly married pair on Sinclair street, only the immediate families of the parties being present. Following the ceremony a wedding feast was served, and the evening was most happily spent in social intercourse.

The groom, Mr. Wm. F. Kimball, is a son of the late John W. Kimball, and is the popular foreman of the company of the Janesville Machine Foundry. He is a first class young man. The bride is a daughter of Alderman and Mrs. John Thoroughgood, born and reared in Janesville, a great favorite among her associates, and possesses those womanly characteristics which will make her home a happy place in which to abide.

The bride was kindly remembered by her friends, receiving many tokens as reminders of her happy wedding day, among which was a splendid upright piano from her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball commence housekeeping at once in their new home on Sinclair street, where the best wishes of many friends will abide with them.
